Policies for the Reuse of USGA Green Section Publications

1) Adherence to all components of our Conditions for Reuse policy.

2) Verification of your organization’s legal right to reproduce the materials you wish to use.

3) Notification of your Intent To Reprint Content.

For more information, please contact: GreenSection@usga.org

Dr. James R. Watson Jr.

Dr. James R. Watson Jr. was a pioneer in the field of agronomy and turfgrass management. His contributions to the industry were significant, and his influence is still felt today. In addition to his work as a researcher, Dr. Watson was a beloved mentor who will be missed by many.

Jim and Charlie

Jim and Charlie were two of the greatest agronomists to ever live. Their accomplishments were truly remarkable, and their legacy continues to inspire us today. In addition to their work in the field of turfgrass management, Jim and Charlie were also decorated WWII veterans.

Pioneers in the Turfgrass Management Industry

Dr. James R. Watson, Jr., and Mr. Charles G. Wilson left a legacy that will never be forgotten. Their contributions to the turfgrass management industry were truly groundbreaking, and their influence is still felt today.

WE'VE LOST TWO OF OUR BEST

Dr. James R. Watson Jr. and Mr. Charles G. Wilson were two of the greatest agronomists to ever live. Their contributions to the industry were significant, and their influence will be felt for generations to come.

INTERNS: A VALUABLE RESOURCE WITH THE UPPER HAND

The number-one thing students seek in an internship is a mentor who will take the time to educate them on the job. The best internships are those that offer a chance to learn from the best. Attracting an intern can be a frustrating process for golf course superintendents, but the benefits are well worth it. The right intern can make a world of difference to a facility.

A workman may be well trained and industrious, but if he has poor tools his daily work is of no greater value than that of a poor workman with good tools.