The Golf Course and Ecology
by James W. Timmerman

Solving Drainage Problems at El Macero
by D. W. Henderson, Don T. Bradley, Jack Jagur

Fairway Renovation at Baltusrol
by Joseph R. Flaherty

Plants to Enhance Environment
by Eliot C. Roberts

Better Turf Through Research

Turf Twisters

COVER PHOTO:
A golf course must be considered as having an ecology of its own. Understanding this ecology is essential to the performance of turfgrasses used for golf turf.