

Cover Photo:
Dr. Patricia A. Cobb's love of entomology earns her the 2001
USGA Green Section Award.

Cracks in the ground are a telltale sign that irrigation coverage is lacking. See page 12.

After ten years, how far has the Audubon Cooperative Sanctuary Program gone? See page 23.

USGA® GREEN SECTION Record

1
2001 USGA Green Section Award Recipient – Dr. Patricia A. Cobb

2
Big Challenges – Unique Solutions

2
A Map For Success
An easy tool in developing pest management strategies. By Jim Skorulski.

3
Waving The Red Flag
A cart use policy for golfers with physical limitations. By Pat Gross.

4
Money Talks
Quantify maintenance costs to qualify a request for course closure. By Keith Happ.

5
Lessons From The Lorax
The golf industry would do well to pay attention to sage advice from Dr. Seuss. By Frank S. Rossi, Ph.D.

9
Used, But Not Useless
Modified golf carts to transport supplies. By Chris Hartwiger.

10
Nature Will Find A Way
Common myths about soil microbiology. By Mike Kenna, Ph.D.

12
A Bird's Eye View
Checking irrigation performance with aerial infrared photography to help illustrate irrigation system deficiencies. By Brian Maloy.

13
Multi-Task Mowing
A strategy for combining routine jobs to compensate for limitations in resources. By John Foy.

14
Are You Missing Anything in Your Efforts to Communicate?
A website provides a tool to communicate current information regarding golf course maintenance operations. By Darin S. Bevard.

15
Spring Fever
Dick Ruge Q&A – The head of the USGA Test Center fields some frequently asked questions.

18
A Perpetual Kodak Moment
Taking pictures provides the benefit of journals that cover an entire career. By Bob Brame.

19
Getting Your Green Back Without Greenbacks
Recovering from devastation on a shoestring budget. By Larry Gilhuly.

20
Scanning New Horizons
A fun and effective way to enhance your communication efforts. By Jim Moore.

22
Nursery Rhymes
Damage to greens can be quickly repaired with putting green nursery sod. By Darin S. Bevard.

23
The Audubon Cooperative Sanctuary Program for Golf Courses:
Promoting Environmental Stewardship
Where we've been and where we're going. By Ron Dodson.

27
News Notes

30
Turf Twisters