The prolonged drought conditions plaguing many areas of the country have forced golf course operators to reassess their water usage practices. Golf course superintendents must ensure that water management practices are sustainable, environmentally friendly, and economically viable. Inclusion of the appropriate Reprint Permission Language.

Golf course superintendents must ensure that water management practices are sustainable, environmentally friendly, and economically viable. Inclusion of the appropriate Reprint Permission Language.

Golf course superintendents must ensure that water management practices are sustainable, environmentally friendly, and economically viable. Inclusion of the appropriate Reprint Permission Language.

Golf course superintendents must ensure that water management practices are sustainable, environmentally friendly, and economically viable. Inclusion of the appropriate Reprint Permission Language.

Golf course superintendents must ensure that water management practices are sustainable, environmentally friendly, and economically viable. Inclusion of the appropriate Reprint Permission Language.